A Square Deal

Is assured you when you buy Dr. Pierce's family medicines—for all the ingredients entering into them are printed on the bottle-wrappers and their formulas are attested under oath as being complete and correct. You know just what you are paying for and that the ingredients are gathered from Nature's laboratory, being selected from the most valuable native medicinal roots found growing in our American forests and while potent to cure are perfectly harmless even to the most delicate women and children. Not a drop of alcohol enters into their composition. Much better than is used for extracting and preserving the medicinal principles used in them, viz., pure triethylene glycerine. This agent possesses intrinsic medicinal properties of its own, being a most valuable antiseptic and antiferment, nutritive and soothing demulcent.

Glycerine plays an important part in Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in the cure of indigestion, dyspepsia and weak stomach, attended by sour risings, heartburn, foul breath, coated tongue, poor appetite, gnawing feeling in stomach, biliousness and kindred derangements of the stomach, liver and bowels. Besides curing all the above distressing ailments, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a specific for all diseases of the mucous membranes, as catarrh, whether of the nasal passages or of the stomach, bowels or pelvic organs. Even in its ulcerative stages it will yield to this sovereign remedy if its use be persevered in. In Chronic Catarrh of the Nasal passages, it is well, while taking the "Golden Medical Discovery" for the necessary constitutional treatment, to cleanse the passages freely two or three times a day with Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy. This thorough course of treatment generally cures the worst cases.

In coughs and hoarseness caused by bronchitis, throat and lung affections, except consumption in its advanced stages, the "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most efficient remedy, especially in those obstinate, hacking coughs caused by irritation and congestion of the bronchial mucous membranes. The "Dis" remedy is not so good for acute coughs arising from sudden colds, nor must it be expected to cure consumption in its advanced stages—no medicine will do that—but for all the obstinate, chronic coughs, which, if neglected, or badly treated, lead up to consumption, it is the best medicine that can be taken.

Doctor Recommends Postum From Personal Test.

No one is better able to realize the injurious action of caffeine—the drug in coffee—on the heart, than the doctor.

When the doctor himself has been relieved by simply leaving off coffee and using Postum, he can refer with full conviction to his own case.

A Mo. physician prescribes Postum for many of his patients because he was benefited by it. He says:

"I wish to add my testimony in regard to that excellent preparation—Postum. I have had functional or nervous heart trouble for over 15 years, and part of the time was unable to attend to my business.

"I was a moderate user of coffee and did not think drinking it hurt me. But on stopping it and using Postum instead, my heart has got all right, and I ascribe it to the change from coffee to Postum.

"I am prescribing it now in cases of sickness, especially when coffee does not agree, or affects the heart, nerves or stomach."

"When made right it has a much better flavor than coffee, and is a vital sustainer of the system. I shall continue to recommend it to our people, and I have my own case to refer to."

SOUTHERN FARM NOTES.

TOPICS OF INTEREST TO THE PLANTER, STOCKMAN AND TRUCK GROWER.

Raising Mules in Georgia.

It is certainly refreshing to meet up with a man in the South who is making a success in raising live stock. It is quite a common thing to find a farmer who is raising hogs and some cattle, but it is very rare to find one engaged in raising mules. Last week we met Mr. J. McWhorter, of Beardsdown, in Oglethorpe County, Georgia, who is a successful merchant and farmer. In conversation with him he informed us that he was raising mules on a small scale and was very much pleased with the result. He has six mares and raises six mules a year. This spring he sold one of his raisings for $210.10. The mule did not cost him any greater outlay of money than he would have had to expend in raising two bales of cotton, and yet brought him just twice as much. The farmers are right in not having any but large, heavy mules. It takes power to pull the plow deep. Paying $200 and more for a mule has begun to open our farmers' eyes to the vast drain upon our cotton crop that is annually being made to keep up the enormous supply of mules. Now, let us go a step further and begin to raise them. Percheron mares make fine working animals and will breed large mules. Every man who has as much as 200 acres of land or a good pasture should also have at least two good mares to raise mule colts. A fine jack should be in every county site in our Southland. The mule will always be largely used by our cotton producers, then why not raise them, since rye, wheat, oats, peas, velvet beans, sorghum, Bermuda, alfalfa will grow here with us just as well as any where on earth if we only give them a good chance. We feel a deep interest in Mr. J. L. McWhorter's venture. We hope he will persevere, and we trust hundreds of our successful farmers will join with him in this important and long neglected branch of farming. We feel better since we know there is one man raising mules in Georgia. Mr. McWhorter has a fine jack, and many farmers are raising one or two mule colts, but we don't know of any man who has as many as six brood mares. So many are talking of the scarcity of labor. Build good Bermuda pastures and raise mule colts. They will gather most their food themselves and convert it into a valuable and saleable shape. Here's to the Georgia mule, may his tribe increase. And so may the enterprising number who will join Mr. McWhorter in his effort to diversify our farming and to render our South more sustaining.—Southern Cultivator.

Making Pork on Peanuts.

The peanut does not yield in the Northern States as it does South. There they grow large crops of them in light sandy soil that will produce little else. One of the large growers of peanuts in the South in a letter to the Southern Cultivator praises the crop as very profitable for hog raising and fattening. He says: The peanut has many advantages over other crops. First, it has no insect enemy; second, it will withstand more dry weather than any other crop, and third, poor sandy land that will not pay in any other crop will make a fine crop of peanuts. I had this year twenty acres in peanuts that easily made fifty bushels per acre on land that would not make over eight bushels of corn without fertilizer. The vines made the finest hay I ever fed when properly cured. If you pull them up in the evening and the sun shines the next day in the evening take them in and you will have the sweetest hay you ever saw. My horses will leave alfalfa to eat peanut hay cured in this way.

The peanuts are the finest hog feed I ever fed. If you want to feed your hogs on peanuts have a block in your barn or crib and a sharp hatchet and you can chop off the bunch of peanuts from a pint to nearly a quart on each root. You can chop off two bushels of peanuts while you are shelling one bushel of corn. They will fatten hogs faster than anything else and keep them healthy.

Some people say there is no money in peanuts, but there is, for I get money the year round for mine. I am now supplying two stores, besides using the nuts to fatten my hogs. The vines or hay I feed to my horses and cows.

Destroying the Blue Thistle.

E. V. C. Vesuvius, writes: I have a field that had wheat on it that was out in June which is nearly blue with the blue thistle. Several persons have told me to dig them up and burn them. I want to sow wheat on the land this fall. How would you advise me to get rid of the thistles? Answer—If the thistles have not gone to seed, I would plow them under as deeply as possible. If they are about ready to seed, cut them and burn them, and then break the land and fallow it thoroughly. It is late to sow cowpeas to advantage, but in an ordinary season, you might have used cowpeas to advantage as they make an excellent smother crop and would help to hold the thistles in check. Persistent hard work is the only way by which you can hope to control the thistles, but it will pay you to attack the problem with all vigor you possess for it is an unusually pernicious weed and one extremely difficult to eradicate, but if you do not battle with it persistently it will soon spread all over your farm and get to be an intolerable nuisance. By the blue thistle you probably mean the Canadian thistle.—Prof. Soule.

How to Deal With the Ducklings.

To raise young ducks successfully, the best way is to treat them almost like a pig, confine them in a small, grassy yard with a coop or a box for a roosting place. Feed them four or five times a day or more, from the "left overs" from the dinner table—cold vegetables, etc. Mix this with buttermilk and feed in a trough as you would a pig, not forgetting to provide them with one-third the bulk of their ration with sand, for they do not pick grit as does the chicken, but eat sand or even mud with their ration.

They need no exercise, and only enough water to drink—none to swim in, or even get the down on them wet. They delight to fill their craws full, then sit quietly down near the trough and cut their eyes up to the sun, first one side then the other, until the spirit moves them again to hit the feed trough. A fatening hog is modest in its demand for food as compared with a flock of healthy Pekin ducks a month old, but then it is not watch Charlotte, but the ducks grow.—Uncle Jo, Mecklenburg County, North Carolina.

Why Legumes Enrich.

According to the scientific experts each acre of your farm has 75,000,000 pounds of nitrogen suspended in the air over it. That nitrogen is worth fifteen cents a pound to you, and each acre has $11,250,000 in nitrogen value floating over it.

Your land can not directly draw the valuable nitrogen from the atmosphere, and utilize it in the growing of crops. You have no available mechanical or chemical means by which you can force the air to drop its nitrogen upon your soil. Nevertheless, nature makes it possible for you to draw to a certain extent upon the vast stores of nitrogen above your farm. One class of plants, the legumes, is endowed by nature with the power to draw nitrogen from the atmosphere and store it in the soil for a time. The familiar clovers, the cowpeas, the soybeans and the wonderful alfalfa belong to this valuable class of plants, and you can use them to draw from the air in the nitrogen your soil needs and must have in order to be able to produce large and good crops. An acre of legumes will draw from the air about 200 pounds of nitrogen, and it will enrich your soil in the most effective way at the lowest possible cost.

CURED OF GRAVEL.

Not a Single Stone Has Formed Since Using Doan's Kidney Pills.

J. D. Daughtrey, music publisher, of Suffolk, Va., says: "During two or three years that I had kidney trouble I passed about 2 1/2 pounds of gravel and sandy sediment in the urine. I haven't passed a stone since using Doan's Kidney Pills, however, and that was three years ago. I used to suffer the most acute agony during a gravel attack, and had the other usual symptoms of kidney trouble—lassitude, headache, pain in the back, urinary disorders, rheumatic pain, etc. I have a box containing 14 gravel stones that I passed, but that is not 1/4 of the whole number. I consider Doan's Kidney Pills a fine kidney tonic."

My Dear Doctor: From what has been reported to me as to your three-day liquor cure by gentlemen in whom I have the utmost confidence, and from the further fact that I myself have sent to you patients who were terribly addicted to strong drink, who have been cured of the habit after taking your treatment, I have no hesitancy in saying that I believe that your cure will prove a great blessing to humanity, and I sincerely trust that the unfortunate ones who have contracted the liquor habit may avail themselves of an opportunity to effect a permanent cure. So firmly convinced am I that it is my intention to recommend to others the advisability of consulting you, as I feel sure that they will receive the same benefits as patients whom I have heretofore sent you.

Wishing you success, I am, Yours very truly,

NO REST NIGHT OR DAY.

With Irritating Skin Humor—Hair Began to Fall Out—Wonderful Result From Cuticura Remedies.

"About the latter part of July my whole body began to itch. I did not take much notice of it at first, but it began to get worse all the time, and then I began to get uneasy and tried all kinds of baths and other remedies, but I became worse all the time. My hair began to fall out and my scalp itched all the time. Especially at night, just as soon as I would get in bed and get warm, my whole body would begin to itch, and my finger nails would keep it irritated, and it was not long before I could not rest night or day. A friend asked me to try the Cuticura Remedies, and I did, and the first application helped me wonderfully. For about four weeks I would take a hot bath every night and then apply the Cuticura Ointment to my whole body, and kept getting better, and by the time I used four boxes of Cuticura I was entirely cured and my hair stopped falling out. Cure For The Blues

ONE MEDICINE THAT HAS NEVER FAILED

Health Fully Restored and the Joy of Life Regained.

When a cheerful, brave, light-hearted woman is suddenly plunged into that perfection of misery, the BLUES, it is a sad picture. It is usually this way: "She has been feeling 'out of sorts.'"

For some time; head has ached and back also; has slept poorly, been quite nervous, and nearly fainted once or twice; head dizzy, and heart beats very fast; then that bearing-down feeling, and during her periods she is exceedingly despondent. Nothing pleases her. Her doctor says: "Cheer up; you have dyspepsia; you will be all right soon."

But she doesn't get "all right," and hope vanishes; then come the brooding, morbid, melancholy, everlasting blues.

Don't wait until your sufferings have driven you to despair, with your nerves all shattered and your courage gone, but take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. See what it did for Mrs. Rosa Adams, of 819 12th Street, Louisville, Ky., niece of the late General Roger Hanson, U.S.A. She writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:

"I cannot tell you with pen and ink what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered with female troubles, extreme lassitude, 'the blues,' nervousness, and that all-gone feeling. I was advised to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and it not only cured my female derangement, but it has restored me to perfect health and strength. The buoyancy of my younger days has returned, and I do not suffer any longer with despondency, as I did before. I consider Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a boon to sick and suffering women."

If you have some derangement of the female organism write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice.
